Training and Development

Mobile elevated work platform (MEWP) training.

Elevated platforms without elevated risk

With over 40 years' experience in the recycling and waste management sector, Recycling Lives' Training and Development services will meet all your MEWP training needs.

We cover all forms of MEWP, including Scissor Lifts and Cherry Pickers.

Who are these courses for?

These courses are ideal for any employee, manager or supervisor wishing to operate an MEWP. We offer courses aimed at all skill levels, from absolute beginners to refresher courses for experienced MEWP operators.

Why do I need this course?

These courses ensure that you - and your business - are covered by the Health and Safety Executive regulations. The Work at Height Regulations 2005 require employers to ensure that any employees who work at height are fully trained. These regulations apply to any role where there is a risk of injury from falling.

Providing operator training helps to establish an active and aware safety culture in your workplace. Accidents, and the associated costs, will decrease considerably and your employees will feel safer in their workplace, which will improve staff morale and productivity.

What does the training involve?

There are three levels available:

- Beginner Level: 3-5 days
- Intermediate: 2-3 days
- Refresher/conversion: 1 day
- 75% of the course is practical training
- Training on proper harness use, ensuring the safety of all operators
- The use of our purpose-built training area, where we simulate real-life workplace situations for a fuller learning experience
- The option to set aside an area of your own premises for practical training, provided they meet HSE criteria
- All machinery and equipment is provided for courses taken at our facilities

Learning outcomes

- Independent Training Standards Scheme and Register (ITSSAR) Operators Certificate
- Full knowledge of pre-use checks, daily checks, safe operating procedure and reporting procedure
